Dubai's style gurus reveal their gift wishlists for the festive season

	FOR YOU	FOR GUYS	FOR GIRLS	FOOD GIFT	EXPERIENCE GIFT	GIFT FOR THE HOME	BEAUTY GIFT	SPENDING THE HOLIDAYS
Vinodhoshi MAC Senior Artist, Middle East & India	 I would love to have the new iPhone - it's really cool and very trendy.	 I would get him some vouchers for a top spa so that he could go and spend some quality time being pampered.	 I get my friends personalised MAC gift sets and then do their make-up using the colours.	 A meal for two at Asha's in Wafi - it's definitely my favourite Indian eatery around Dubai.	 A weekend at the Hatta mountain resort makes a nice, easy escape from Dubai.	 THE ONE is a beautiful furniture store in Dubai.	 The entire range of BODY BE Delicious: I love the body lotion.	 With my family in Leicester, in the UK, for a family get-together and catch up with all my family. Last time I went home for the holidays was almost nine years ago, so I'm really looking forward to this trip.
Faouzi Mousen Membership Director, The Capital Club	 Christian Louboutin black patent leather ankle booties. So fabulous.	 A BMW-designed Saco espresso machine. And any Shanghai Tang accessory, especially the cufflinks so that I can keep the stunning box all for myself.	 The Goddess Guide, a gorgeous hardcover gilly book, a great gift!	 Perhaps a Gingerbread House from The Hamper Shop in the Boulevard of Emirates Towers - delicious.	 Hot stone massages at SensAsia, and a weekend stay at the linear Spa.	 Affordable art: a customised canvas from a favourite photo, or maybe I'd order something funky from the Canvas Lounge, an online gallery of great canvases for the home.	 Juliette Has A Gun's Mists Charming, for the beautiful packaging alone!	 Amsterdam for New Year's. I'm staying at the College Hotel, the best place in town right now.
Fatima Al-Mazroui Ghobash Buyer and Owner, S'UCE Boutique	 Ampoules, from Dhs3,370, Theo Fennell.	 Anything at all from Theo Fennell jewelry.	 Diptyque candles from S'UCE - their scents are so lovely.	 Candy House sweets (again, from S'UCE, of course).	 Spa vouchers at the linear Spa at the Madinat.	 Photo frames always make a great present.	 Shu Uemura make-up - they do some very chic gift sets.	 The One & Only Reedy Run resort in the Maldives.
Johnny de Domenico Director, Connected Models	 A $40 Classic SD speedboat from Audere or a Carter Roadster (left, Dhs18,000).	 F by Ferragamo, and some soft cashmere socks.	 Pearls are always a winner. And Marianne Faithfull's autobiography - what a story!	 For friends in the UK, I order caviar from Fortnum & Mason.	 Virgin Galactic - I want!	 Ormonde Jayne candles and room sprays - yum! It's a great niche perfume brand.	 Clarins Beauty Flash - a classic, and it's a lot cheaper than surgery!	 Gos, at Elsewhere, a lovely little hotel (seeelsewhere.com).

LIZ CLAIBORNE

New York-based fashion brand Liz Claiborne has shaken things up this season under the watchful eye of new creative director Isaac Mizrahi. The label's spring 2009 collection reflects the heritage of the original Liz Claiborne vision, but with a modern update to keep it bang on trend. The range keeps things simple with sleek, classic shapes and bright hues: tailored masculine blazers are paired with both pencil and full skirts, while classic shirt-dresses are layered under trench coats for an updated spring look.

Trousers are a particular focus this season, with shapes ranging from cropped skinny to an exaggerated wide-leg silhouette. Meanwhile, the accessories collection is a candy shop of colour, with bright bangles, floral necklaces and bold-tued handbags.

Mizrahi says he based the collection around the theme of "colour as luxury", with a host of vibrant hues to evoke the spirit of the season. "The new spring collection comes in a bounty of colours, to be worn head to toe or mixed and matched with neutrals to create hundreds of outfits," he explains.

Brooklyn-born Mizrahi studied at New York's Parsons School of Design and went on to win four coveted CFDA awards. With such renowned talent on board, Liz Claiborne's collection is sure to be a big hit with fashion lovers this season. ■
